

SENATE TALK ON CLEAN POLITICS BILL CONTINUES

Vote on Hatch Proposals
May Not Be Reached
Before April

Washington, March 14.—(AP)—The senate approved a $5,000 limitation on political contributions today by attaching an amendment to the pending anti-politics legislation.

The limitation provision, sponsored by opponents of amendments to broaden the Hatch act, carried by a vote of 49 to 38.

Senator Bankhead (D-Ala.), author of the limiting provision, immediately clinched his victory when the senate tabled a reconsideration motion 41 to 38.

The Bankhead provision would limit any individual to contributing $5,000 to any candidate or campaign committee and define as a "pernicious political activity" any contribution above this.

Continue Debate
Senator Pepper (D-Fla.) led off another long assault against broadening the Hatch anti-politics law today, even as one of his colleagues asserted that debate over the extension legislation might tie up the senate all this month.

Senator Minton (D-Ind.), who asserted a final vote was not possible today, told reporters that unless the senate worked faster on amendments "we may not get a vote this month."

Pepper put forward an amendment which was defeated 50 to 28. If the pending legislation to extend Hatch law restrictions to state employees paid partly from federal funds was enacted, Pepper's amendment, if approved, would permit such employees to take active part in political campaigns. They would, however, be restrained from coercing their subordinates or using their official influence in behalf of their various candidates.

Agree on Money Bill
Pepper told the senate that the Hatch legislation "is not a clean politics bill; it is not a bill to prevent corrupt practices or to forbid excessive interference in campaigns by the moneyed interests."

"There has been no clamor for this legislation from the states. The initiator of this bill is the senator from New Mexico and others who have had unfortunate experiences in their state. There is no demand from the mass of the people."

Meanwhile, a senate-house conference committee reached agreement on the appropriation bill carrying funds for more than a score of independent agencies for the fiscal year beginning July 1.

Members of the committee said

23 Fruit Pickers Killed in Train- Truck Collision

McAllen, Tex., March 14.—(AP)—

Twenty-three fruit pickers, mostly Mexicans, were killed today in their orchard-bound truck which was struck squarely in the center at a grade crossing by a Missouri-Pacific passenger train. Seventeen other pickers were injured.

It was the most disastrous wreck in Texas history. The train crashed into the truck at 8:06 A. M. at a crossing six miles east of this lower Rio Grande valley town. It carried the vehicle on its cowcatcher for about 600 yards. Bodies were scattered along the tracks.

Identification of the victims, all passengers in the truck, was slow. Most of them were laborers living in the farm areas around Alamo, Texas.

The truck burst into flames under the impact of the crash. One body was found charred when the train had stopped.

Homer Garrison, state police director, said "the McAllen crossing wreck apparently is the worst of its kind in Texas history. Our records go back only to 1935 when the public safety department was created but no one here can recall a crossing accident in which more lives were lost."

One of the worst previous crashes occurred Jan. 22, 1927, in which 10 Baylor University students were killed and 12 injured in a crossing accident at Round Rock, Tex.

The train figuring in the McAllen crash runs between Harlingen and Rio Grande City. The track parallels the main lower Rio Grande Valley highway.

John Boyce of McAllen, who was driving with a companion on a highway paralleling the track, said:

Witnesses' Stories

"I saw a big cloud of dust when the train reached the crossing. When we arrived at the scene we saw there had been a wreck. We rushed up to find bodies rolling around on the ground. The train was still moving."

"The dust was so thick for a moment we couldn't tell what had happened, but when we saw the mangled bodies we knew something awful had taken place."

"We ran to a telephone to call the sheriff's office and ambulances and then looked around to see if we could help any of those people. It looked to me like most of them were beyond help. A few minutes later Deputy Sheriff Ingram of the sheriff's office carefully tried to count the bodies."

"I found at least 23. 'I have never seen anything worse in my life. We found one child without its head. We found a man's body severed at the waist. We found another man without head and arms. We found portions of bodies scattered from the point of impact to the front of the engine, a distance of two blocks.'"

Miss Mary Ann Wall, secretary of the Alamo Citrus Association, whose office faces the crossing, "heard a terrible crash."

"When I looked I saw bodies flying in every direction through a sheet of flame. It seemed to me that the gasoline tank of the truck had exploded."

Two Lifers Disappear From Indiana Prison

Michigan City, Ind., March 14.—

(AP)—Two convicts serving life terms imposed at Indianapolis on murder charges disappeared from a dormitory outside the state prison last night and no trace of them had been found today.

The fugitives are Eddie Terry, 42, sentenced Jan. 28, 1920, and Leroy Moss, sentenced Jan. 12, 1929.

State police started a search for the men.

One Thing Englewood's Police Chief Doesn't Want Is 'Music Box Trouble'

Chicago, March 14.—(AP)—

Drinkers who like to blow the suds from their beverages to the accompaniment of recorded music had best seek haunts other than taverns in the Englewood district because the music boxes there are silent—on the orders of Police Captain Eugene Barry.

The official sh-h-h-h was the result, the captain said, of a difference of opinion between tavern owner George Steder and the International Electrical Workers Union, local 134, over maintenance of the machines.

Steder purchased an automatic phonograph two months ago at the insistence of his pa-

FINLAND PLANS FORTIFICATIONS AND ALLIANCES

Seeks Protection of New Borders From Future
Threats

Helsinki, March 14.—(AP)—

Shrouded in peace, Finland today counted on new fortifications and a prospective alliance with Norway and Sweden, if need be, to save her from Czechoslovakia's fate.

Foreign Minister Vaino Tanner made it clear that despite the crushing peace that ended 105 days of war with Soviet Russia, Finland intended to take every step to protect her newly-narrowed borders from future threats.

Asked if fortification of the new borders would be permitted, Tanner flashed back:

"Who is going to stop us?"

He added, "our military commanders say all borders are defensible."

Nevertheless, with the great Mannerheim line and most of Finland's other frontier defenses ceded to Russia and a Russian naval base to be established on the key peninsula of Hanko under Tuesday's treaty of Moscow, Finland looked forward to discussions soon aimed at a defensive alliance with Sweden and Norway.

President Kyosti Kallio said in a broadcast today that a Finnish-Swedish-Norwegian defense alliance is inescapably necessary.

Foreign Minister Halvidan Koht of Norway said his country agreed several days ago to "consider the possibility" of such an alliance.

These northern neighbors already have agreed to talk it over at Finland's initiative, Tanner said, although they refused such an overture when the war was in progress.

To the mourning public of Finland, which lost thousands of its sons and much of its wealth in the futile struggle against invasion, the government broadcast a plea for continuing in peace the cooperation and unity that was so characteristic in war.

Armies to Withdraw

The trim little Finnish army prepared for the step-by-step withdrawal from its snowy battle fronts as provided for both armies in Russia's truceless peace terms.

First withdrawal, a minimum of 7 kilometers (about 4.5 miles) is scheduled tomorrow in the Lieksa area, with similar retreats to follow in other sectors on a schedule that calls for the last

Horner Changed Man Lieut. Gov. Stelle Charges

Decatur, Ill., March 14.—(AP)—

Lieut. Gov. John Stelle, target of a verbal attack by Governor Horner, told a Decatur audience last night the chief executive had undergone a marked change in the past year.

Stelle, candidate for governor, asserted that Horner had "warmly" expressed to me his deep appreciation for the way I had conducted the office of governor" during Horner's absence in Florida because of illness.

"What has happened to the man who was our governor, since his return last April?" Stelle asked in his campaign address. "I know that I have not changed. My politics as a state official have not changed. Even my regard for Henry Horner has not changed."

In his first press conference since early in January, the governor yesterday said of Stelle: "I wouldn't have him around for a messenger boy. I have refused to talk with Stelle because I don't trust him, in or out of court."

To Stelle's charge that the state administration had been usurped by a small group of Springfield politicians who had

'MORAL EMBARGO' AGAINST RUSSIA STILL IN EFFECT

United States Will Continue to Regard Reds Warily

Washington, March 14.—(AP)—

With President Roosevelt indicating uneasiness over Finland's future, the United States will continue to regard Russia warily for some time.

This became apparent today when it was learned from a reliable source that the "moral embargo" against Russia, imposed by Roosevelt and the state department after the Soviet invasion of Finland, would be maintained indefinitely regardless of the Baltic peace.

The president laid down the "moral embargo" on the shipment of airplanes and parts to Russia early in December. This was later amplified by the state department to include materials going into the manufacture of airplanes, such as molybdenum and aluminum, and also plants and plans for the manufacture of aviation gasoline.

No move to lift any of these embargoes will be made for some time, it was learned because:

1. Officials are not sure that Russia will not again move against a Finland weakened by the peace treaty, as Germany did against Czechoslovakia weakened by the detachment of the Sudetenland.

2. Nor are they sure that Russia, now that her hands are freed by the peace treaty with Finland, will not move against other nations, perhaps in the Balkans or the Near East.

3. Nor are they sure that materials sent to Russia are not going on through to Germany.

White House Statement

Roosevelt's concern over the Finnish situation was expressed in a statement issued by the White House late yesterday: He said:

"The ending of this war does not yet clarify the inherent right of small nations to the maintenance of their integrity against attack by superior force."

"The people of Finland, by their unexcelled valor and strong resistance in the face of overwhelming armed forces, have won the moral right to live in everlasting peace and independence in the land they have so bravely defended."

The Finnish people and government, Roosevelt continued, again have increased "the respect and warm regard in which they are held by the people and government"

Troops Take Up Positions Along Grand River Dam

Disney, Okla., March 14.—(AP)—

Fifty-seven Oklahoma National Guardsmen reached the Grand river damsite today, then turned around and went back to their mobilization point at Wagoner, leaving a handful of officers to carry on Gov. Leon C. Phillips' "state's rights war."

After a conference with I. N. Towne, construction superintendent, Adjutant General Louis A. Ledbetter said it would not be necessary for the troops to remain at the damsite because "we are getting splendid co-operation from all officials here."

Major H. B. Parris, commander of the guard company, arrived at the site of the $20,000,000 power and flood control project last night. He ordered Towne to stop all construction which would cause water of the river to back up in the reservoir.

Under Martial Law

Phillips declared martial law to prevent completion of the dam before the Public Works Administration pays the state's $850,000 claim for damages to bridges and roads.

At the present time, water is flowing under two arches of the mile-long structure through temporary openings 60 feet wide. Only one arch, No. 6, remains to be completed.

Asked if construction would be permitted to continue on arch No. 6 as long as water flowed through the other arches, Ledbetter said that was a matter to be decided by Col. Philip S. Donnell, Oklahoma A. & M. College dean of engineering.

"Donnell will have technical direction of the dam and will be in charge until martial law is lifted," Ledbetter said.

Calling out the guard late yesterday, Phillips delivered a scathing attack against the PWA. From which he seeks $850,000 for roads and bridges which would be inundated.

"This action might not have been necessary if they hadn't broken their word by starting the last arch," he commented. "I am going to keep the guards there until I know I am safe. When I know I'm safe I'll pull them out."

Plans Court Fight

Phillips, a staunch advocate of state's rights, also planned a state strike.

Werner brought an especially trained eye to bear on the invasion of the Red army, for before his assignment to Copenhagen he had been chief of The Associated Press bureau in Moscow.)

By WADE WERNER

Copenhagen, March 14.—(AP)—Now that the Russian-Finnish war is over some of the most obvious reasons influencing the Finns in their decision to sign peace can be disclosed.

While the hostilities continued the censorship policy naturally dictated suppression or minimizing of the damage done by the Soviet air raids to industries and transport vital to continuance of armed resistance.

The havoc wrought by the bombers actually was tremendous. Not a single sizeable town in all Finland escaped punishment from the air.

This was bad enough for the civilians, hundreds of whom were killed while countless others saw their homes demolished, burned or badly damaged.

But damage to the factories and railway transport as well as harbor facilities was more a vital factor in crippling Finnish defense.

Towns Ceased to Exist

Hanko and a number of other towns practically ceased to exist. Some railway junctions had little left but tracks and the movement of troops through such points to the front was a most difficult and dangerous task.

In late February when I passed through the junction of Elisenvaara near the western shore of Lake Ladoga, trains were crowded with reinforcements, some south-bound toward the Karelian isthmus, some traveling to the north-east of Lake Ladoga.

The troops with whom I travelled moved through with the utmost difficulty for Elisenvaara had been bombed five times during the night before our arrival and bombers raided us four times during the day.

My censored dispatch did not mention soldiers but it was the movement of reinforcements to the front that the Russian raiders were crippling.

Elisenvaara already was in ruins when we left but it was bombed again repeatedly in succeeding days.

Vuopri Base Useless

Vuopri, seaport at the western end of the Karelian front, was so systematically bombed it was useless as a supply base even before the Soviet troops advanced to within easy artillery range.

Turku, vital western seaport and industrial center, was raided almost daily and bomb damage to harbor facilities and vital factories was disastrous.

Tampere—munitions center—was scoured systematically by large fleets of bombers.

The War Today!

BY DEWITT MACKENZIE

Of highest importance—especially with all Europe in ferment over the Russo-Finnish "peace" and its potentialities—is Italian Undersecretary Soddi's announcement that Italy is ready to defend its liberty of action with a million trained men under arms and with a fortified bulwark across its Alpine frontiers.

The general added that the frontier defenses facing both Germany and France had been strengthened. That's making distrust, or caution, cut both ways.

This supplements, accidentally or otherwise, the straight-from-the-shoulder message which Nazi Foreign Minister von Ribbentrop is understood to have taken back to fuhrer Hitler from Signor Mussolini earlier this week—that Italy will stay out of war so long as the fascist chief considers it advantageous.

What these two announcements amount to is that Il Duce—who is a very practical man—is free-lancing. And he will fight to maintain his prerogatives. You couldn't ask for a more blunt definition of policy, though you probably would like more details.

Mussolini's message may have had a rather formal and dubious ring in Hitler's ears, unless perchance Herr von Ribbentrop also carried to his leader a private word of affection and assurance from Il Duce—which I take the liberty of doubting most decidedly.

It isn't that Hitler wants his partner in the Berlin-Rome axis to come into the war, for I don't believe he does. But there must be an anxious question in the

Guest Speaker

Frank B. Wilson, former representative from this district to the Illinois house of representatives, was guest speaker Tuesday evening at the club rooms before the members and guests of the Polo Junior Woman's club. Mr. Wilson spoke on "Keeping in Touch with Legislative Matters," telling the routine of a bill as it passes from the hands of an introducing representative through various committees and into the hands of the governor. An interesting talk and discussion such as carried on by Mr. Wilson should make all voters appreciate what the political leaders of our states try to do for the benefit of the community as they see it.

During the business session it was announced that any one desiring to give donations of clothing, etc., to the Peters family, whose home recently burned, could leave them with Tom Odom. It was also voted that the club send a delegate to the state convention held in Chicago in May.

TRAFFIC FATALITY

Vandilla, Ill., Mar. 14—(AP)—A coroner's jury termed an accident the death of Virgil Mikesell, 28-year-old Fayette county WPA worker, east of here on state route 40.

Mikesell, uninjured in a collision of his automobile and a truck Tuesday night, was killed when another car struck the wrecked vehicle and a companion were attempting to move off the highway.

It is reported by competent military observers that on approximately 66 out of every 100 take-offs or landings on aircraft carriers, Japanese pilots crack up a plane. The British: about 23 out of every 100 and the U. S. Navy less than one per hundred.

England's Bristol Blenheim is reported to be the best bomber in the present European war.

fuehrer's mind as to which way the Italian leaders will go if and when he does get into the conflict.

The Duce's statement of policy stops short of clearing up that point, so far as the public knows. And it is a vital point for Hitler as he rapidly approaches a moment when the drums of war may be about to roll out a summons to bloody conflict.

Signor Mussolini is a pretty smart man. He may not always go in the direction he wishes to take, but he generally goes in the direction which common sense dictates, under his code.

Common-sense impels him to neutrality or, as he prefers to put it, non-belligerency. That expression "non-belligerency" is a concession to his affiliation with Hitler, and to his avowed determination to resist any bolshevist invasion of the Balkans.

Non-belligerency happens to be the course of both wisdom and preference. Wisdom dictates that Il Duce refrain from being rough with powerful Hitler, whose troops look down on Italy from the Brenner pass, and cautions him against raw-hiding England and France enough to draw French troops across his border and set the Anglo-French navies to blockading his almost never ending coast lines.

On the preference side there are several important items. As a non-belligerent Mussolini can set his merchant marine to sailing the seven seas, picking up profitable markets which formerly belonged to the combatants.

He can trade with both belligerents—and the allies often pay in hard cash. He can work on his ambitious plan of establishing politico-economic influence in the Balkans.

In short, while the other major powers of Europe are doing a fine job of burning up their economic resources in war, Il Duce is trying to make Italy prosperous. And he is bent on keeping war away from the Balkans and the Mediterranean.

The most likely way for Italy to become involved in war would be if Russia invaded the Balkans. That possibility has been increased by the release of the Reds from the Finnish conquest although Moscow hasn't made any move in that direction. Mussolini intends to keep the bolsheviks out.

In such a conflict he would be running true to form as the arch-foe of communism. He wouldn't be challenging Hitler, unless the latter chose to take it that way. He would have the blessings of the allies but wouldn't actually be affiliated with them. Thus he might engage the Muscovites without getting into difficulties with either the allies or Herr Hitler. Italy's chief is, as I have remarked, a clever man.

Having a weather eye to such a clash with the Reds, and not overlooking other potentialities, the fascist leader is continuing to get Italy set for feats at arms if it is necessary, or advantageous, to engage in them. He is stocking up with guns, tanks, airplanes and war supplies of all sorts. Not overlooking the hard cash which he is collecting by his thriving trade.

If he has to face a showdown between joining the allies and going with Germany, he undoubtedly will be governed by circumstances of the moment. However, if developments continue as they are headed now it wouldn't be surprising to see him choose the Anglo-French brotherhood. It isn't that he loves the allies the more, but that he likes the Germans and their bolshevist affiliation the less.

Mussolini is looking far beyond the war. He expects not only to play a big part in the peace conference, but intends to have a large hand in the construction of a new Europe.

Horner Changed—

taken advantage of the governor's illness, Horner declared: "That is one thing I haven't lost—my power as governor".

Not Horner Speaking
Commenting upon the governor's remarks, Gov. Stelle said "that was not Henry Horner who spoke today".

"I have not changed", Stelle continued, "but Henry Horner has changed. Surely it is not the great humanitarian of yesterday who today said: 'no one is usurping my power as governor. I'm on the job all the time'."

"Would the man we elected governor in 1936 have stood idly by while Sam Nudelman (state finance director) extorted an assessment from the salaries of helpless state job holders?"

"Would the Henry Horner of 1936 have sat mute while his loyal friend and campaign manager (F. Lynden Smith) came to a mysterious death and the state of Illinois became a spectacle of shame in the nation with threatened investigations by the federal government of the activities of his employees?"

"Would the great humanitarian of 1932 have permitted the awful toll of 60 deaths in a state institution to go unanswered on the pages of our history?"

Stelle did not elaborate on the latter but apparently referred to the deaths caused by a typhoid fever outbreak at the Manteno state hospital last summer.

State Rep. Benjamin S. Adamowski of Chicago who is seeking the U. S. senatorship nomination on a ticket alignment with Stelle and State Auditor Edward J. Barrett, seized upon Governor Horner's remarks to declare in a campaign speech at Lincoln today:

Stelle Has Cold
"Henry Horner in the past has always been a gentleman and a statesman. Neither a gentleman nor a statesman would make the statements attributed to Governor Horner yesterday."

Adamowski repeated his charge that "the government of Illinois is in the hands of a group of self-appointed bosses".

Stelle did not appear at the Lincoln rally today and friends said he was confined to his Springfield home with a cold.

Adamowski was attacked today in campaign speeches by Homer Mat Adams, Kelly-Horner candidate for state treasurer and national president of the Young Democratic clubs of America, for "suggesting a state of affairs in Springfield which he knew did not exist".

Speaking at rallies in Wheaton and Aurora, Adams called the Chicago representative a "hitch-hiker" who "must take orders from John" Stelle). Adams referred to Adamowski's suggestion that a committee of clergymen and doctors be appointed by an impartial group to determine the state of Governor Horner's health.

Alfred Borah Chairman Young Republican Work for Dwight H. Green

Chicago, March 14—(Special)—Alfred J. Borah, prominent Young Republican Cook county leader, today accepted appointment as state chairman of the Young Republican organizations supporting Dwight H. Green for governor.

In accepting the appointment, Borah announced that his organization will begin immediately placing 200,000 Green pledge cards in circulation throughout the state. One of his first acts was to confer with a number of other Young Republican leaders at the Hamilton hotel and instruct them about the securing of signatures.

"Young Republicans have participated in many campaigns and they have secured fine results, but this time we will make every effort to accomplish even more", Borah said. "Our aim will be to keep the Young Republican organizations functioning with the same perfection as the older, regular Republican groups. Dwight H. Green's popularity among young voters is so great that we are confident we can set a pledge card record".

Borah said he not only will try to enroll as many as possible of the Young Republican men and women voters in the state for Green, but also the first voters, of both sexes, who will cast their first ballots in April.

"The young women of Illinois have as great a stake in this election as the young men", said Borah. "It is that great group of voters now between 21 and 30 years of age who are going to suffer most in the years immediately ahead because of the mess which the New Dealers have created."

"It is to the interest of all young men and women to bring this unsound period of our country's history to an end, and to return our government to the hands of Republican leaders. "In order to do this, we must nominate men like Green in April because our party's standard bearers must be men of such high character, known ability and integrity that voters of all parties will rally behind them and elect them in November".

Prosecutor Unwilling to Have Judge Decide Director Bowen's Fate

Kankakee, Ill., March 14.—(AP)—State's Attorney Samuel Shapiro indicated yesterday that he would be unwilling to have the second trial of state welfare director A. L. Bowen conducted without a jury.

Counsel for Bowen had agreed to waive a jury for the second trial if Shapiro would allow a judge to decide the case as it stood in the transcript of the first.

However, Shapiro contended in a formal answer to this proposal that such a procedure would not be in the best interests of the state.

Bowen was charged with gross omission of duty in connection with the deaths of 60 persons in a typhoid fever epidemic at the Manteno state mental hospital last summer. After 96 hours of fruitless deliberations the jury which heard the case was dismissed.

Shapiro added that if defense counsel had nothing more to offer within the next 10 days he would ask Circuit Judge James V. Bartley of Joliet, to reset the case. In the meantime, however, Shapiro said he would be willing to confer with defense lawyers regarding any "reasonable suggestions" for procedure in the second trial.

P.-T. A. Hears Varied Program

Special numbers by the fourth and seventh grade students entertained members of the North Central Parent-Teacher association at their monthly meeting Wednesday afternoon. About 90 members attended the program, which was presented in the school gymnasium.

Mrs. Walter Fallstrom, seventh grade room mother, presided during the entertainment. Numbers given were: Songs, "Springtime Is Coming" and "Easter Time," fourth grade, accompanied by Mrs. Helen Scholl; recitation, "My Aunts," Carol Kling; songs, "A Sailor at Dawn" and "Beautiful Dreamer," seventh grade, accompanied by Lois Selgestad; reading, "The Cross Lady," Pauline Gordon; short talk, "Cub Scouting," Stanley Worrell, the new Boy Scout director; address, "Ethical Ideals of Education," Mrs. Coral Lambert.

During the business meeting, conducted by Mrs. Earl Bastian, Mrs. H. J. Schumacher, Mrs. Henry Jensen and Mrs. W. D. MacLeod were asked to select officers to be voted upon at the next meeting, April 10. A physical demonstration has also been planned for the April meeting.

LOIS BOYNTON IS FOUR YEARS OLD

Balloons and nests of Easter eggs were party favors for young guests invited to the country home of the W. S. Boyntons on rural route 1 Wednesday afternoon to assist in celebrating Lois Arlene Boynton's fourth birthday anniversary.

Birthday gifts were brought by the guests, who were Donna Louise and Jimmy Saunders, Janet and Dean Sheaffer, Dean Boynton, Bobby Hummel, their mothers, and Miss Kathryn Sheaffer, Mrs. J. I. Sheaffer, and Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Hummel.

MERRY-MAKERS
Mrs. Paul Clouse, the former Miss Beth Spangler, was honored with a shower of kitchen gadgets when Nachusa Merry-Makers were entertained Tuesday evening with a St. Patrick party at the home of Grace Louise Crawford. Tables were placed for 500. Miss Velma Weidman is to entertain the group on April 2.

Miss Hamilton Shows Trousseau

Friends of mother and daughter were received at the F. L. Hamilton home on East Boyd street this afternoon, when Mrs. Hamilton and her daughter, Miss Mary, entertained at tea. Miss Hamilton, who is to become the bride of Robert Redfern of Chicago on Saturday, was showing her trousseau.

The tea table was in yellow, with a center bouquet of jonquils, lighted tapers in crystal holders, and the tiny cakes repeating the chosen color. A miniature bridal pair stood in the center of the flowers.

Miss Jane Hofer, who will be Miss Hamilton's maid of honor in Saturday's ceremony, came from the MacMurray college campus in Jacksonville to attend the tea. Another out of town guest was Mrs. Paul Baxter, of Newark, N. J., who arrived about a week ago to assist with preparations for her niece's wedding. Mrs. Baxter is a sister of Miss Hamilton's mother.

STUDY INTERIOR FURNISHINGS

"Interior decorating in any home should reflect the individuality of the person living in that home," Mrs. C. A. Mellott told members of the Ideal club yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Ella Ireland of East Second street was the afternoon's hostess.

Furnishings of today, the speaker said, are influenced by the elaborate 18th century English settings of the motion picture, "Gone with the Wind." Her talk was illustrated with numerous samples of materials, ranging from damask to flannel.

Mrs. L. G. Yenerich was welcomed as a new member. A St. Patrick lunch followed the program.

An evening meeting was planned for March 27.

PRESENT FLAG AT FRANKLIN GROVE

Several members of the Dixon Woman's Relief corps were in Franklin Grove, Tuesday evening, to present an American flag to the Franklin Grove high school gymnasium. Mrs. Patterson's public welfare department of the Franklin Grove Woman's club sponsored the meeting, which attracted about 300 guests.

The flag was presented by Mrs. Moderena Jones, patriotic instructor, who was introduced by Mrs. Janna Ware, the corps president. Others assisting with the ritual were the four color bearers, Mesdames Ida Rice, Daisy Brenner, Caroline Boyer, and Mabel Dial. Mrs. Hattie Lebre, Harry Jones, and H. F. Ware accompanied the women to Franklin Grove.

The corps members have been invited to Mrs. Ware's home for an all-day meeting and scramble luncheon tomorrow, to make scrapbooks for children at the Dixon State hospital.

BRIDGE-LUNCHEON
Members of an afternoon bridge club were dining together downtown today, before making up tables for contract at Mrs. Arthur Handell's home. Mrs. William Slothower held a guest tally in the games.

Mrs. Day Welty of Eldena entertained with a chicken dinner yesterday for the South Dixon Community club, her guests numbering 26 members and visitors. Miss Kathryn Feustman and Mrs. William Sauer assisted the hostess with the serving.

Mrs. Carl Blum, the club president, conducted the afternoon business meeting. A theater party was planned for Wednesday morning, March 27, when the members will meet in Dixon to attend "Gone With the Wind," with a tea room luncheon following the show. Mrs. George Pitzer and Mrs. Herman Wassund were welcomed as new members.

Miss Feustman was in charge of recreation, with Mrs. Amy Wolf-ram and Mrs. Henry Remmers sharing honors in the contests. The remainder of the afternoon was devoted to contact, in which favors went to Mrs. Belle Mumford and Mrs. Isabel Levan.

Mrs. John Patterson is to entertain at the next regular meeting on April 10.

CONTRACT CLUB

Mrs. Harold Coss and Mrs. Victor Elchler were co-hostesses to their contract bridge club of eight today. A St. Patrick luncheon at a local tea room was followed by bridge games at the Coss home. Mrs. H. R. Gardner was a guest of the club.

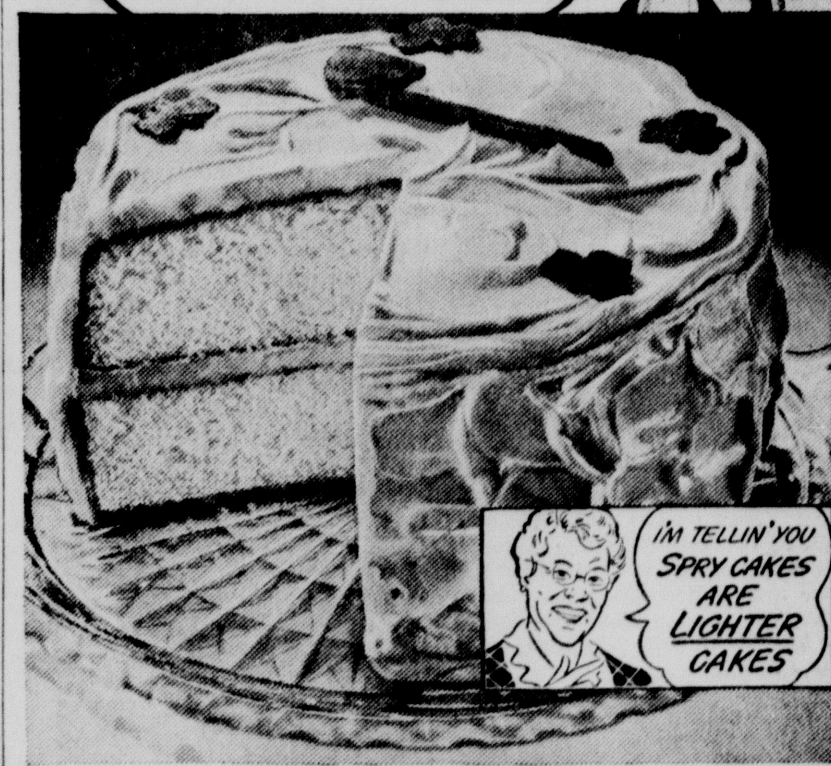

DRILL TEAM

Girls of the American Legion Auxiliary Junior drill team are announcing that final enrollments for their organization will be received at 4 p. m. Monday in the Moose hall. All daughters of American Legion members are eligible.

The possible uses of vinylite are so widespread, as a matter of fact, that even the chemists who created it won't attempt to guess how or where it will turn up next. At the moment, in pliable forms, it's used for suspenders, garters, shoes, shower curtains, raincoats.

TRY MY NEW CAKE FOR ST. PATRICK'S DAY SO LIGHT, DELICATE, MADE WITH SPRY SAYS AUNT JENNY

Only Spry gives ALL these 3 EXTRA ADVANTAGES

ST. PATRICK'S DAY CAKE
1/2 cup Spry, salt and 1 egg white, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 2 teaspoons baking powder, 1/2 cup sugar, 2 cups sifted flour, 2 whole eggs, 1/2 cup milk.

Blend Spry, salt and vanilla. Add sugar gradually and cream well. (So quick and easy with triple-creamed Spry!) Add eggs, singly, beating well after each addition. Sift baking powder with flour 3 times. Add flour to creamed mixture, alternately with milk, mixing after each addition until smooth. Bake in two Spry-greased 8-inch layer pans in moderate oven (375° F.) 25 to 30 minutes. (See what a light, fine-grained cake you get. Use pure Spry for all your cakes—pastry and frying, too.)

Spread Caramel Frosting between layers and on top and sides of cake. Decorate with shamrocks and pipe cut from citron and tinted green.

CARAMEL FROSTING
1/2 cup sugar, 2 tablespoons caramelized sugar, 1/2 cup hot water, 2 tablespoons Spry, 1 tablespoon 2 1/2 cups sifted confectioners' sugar, 1 egg yolk, 1/4 teaspoon salt, 2 1/2 tablespoons scalded top milk, 1/4 teaspoon vanilla (about).

Place granulated sugar in skillet and stir constantly over medium heat until sugar is melted and dark. Remove from fire, add hot water gradually, and stir until dissolved.

Blend Spry, butter, salt, vanilla and caramelized sugar syrup. (Remaining syrup can be stored for future use.) Add 1/4 cup confectioners' sugar gradually, creaming well. Add egg yolk and blend. Add remaining sugar, alternately with hot milk, beating until stiff enough to spread. Add just enough milk to make a nice spreading consistency.

(All measurements in these recipes are level)

Plan Easter Party for Ex-Service Men

Plans were discussed for entertaining 17 ex-service men at the Dixon State hospital with an Easter bridge-party, when members of Dixon unit, American Legion Auxiliary, met yesterday in G. A. R. hall. Mrs. Lila Wagner, district hospital chairman, is completing arrangements for the party to be held in the Boy Scout room at the hospital.

The morning was devoted to sewing carpet rags, followed by a scramble luncheon and business meeting. Several benefit affairs were suggested to raise funds for the unit treasury, and Mrs. Wagner, who is also Americanization chairman, gave a talk on flag etiquette.

An evening meeting was announced for March 27. Card games and refreshments will follow the business session.

GEORGE WASHINGTON SAID:
"Excessive partiality for one foreign nation and excessive dislike of another cause those whom they accuse to see danger only on one side, and serve to veil and even second the arts of influence on the other. Real patriots who may resist the intrigues of the favorite are liable to become suspected and odious, while its tools and dupes usurp the applause and confidence of the people to surrender their interests." From the Farewell Address.

Old Newspapers Are Life-Savers

The reporter tears the last sheet of paper out of his typewriter just before his newspaper goes to press and says, "That's that." The circulation man tosses the last bundle on a truck and murmurs,
"That's the end of that." You finish reading your home edition, pile it with the rest of the papers on the basement stairs and sigh, "Finished with that one."

But are you? What did you wrap your lunch in today? What did you spread over the floor when you painted the ceiling last night? How did you carry that pair of shoes to the cobbler? What are you using to stuff up that hole in the window
until you get around to repairing it?

The average life of your newspaper may be far more fascinating than you imagine. It may take a circuitous route before it gets into the hands of the old-paper dealer. It may participate in the drama of the beginning and the end of life itself.

For example, when someone in the poorer sections of the city calls the Chicago Maternity Center and asks for a doctor to make a delivery, the caller is instructed, among other things to collect some newspapers. When a physician and his nurse arrive, they spread the papers over the furniture in the expectant mother's room because they are usually the cleanest coverings available.

Surgical instruments are often laid on newspapers just after they have been sterilized. Food is spread out on newspapers at picnics and pantry shelves are sometimes lined with printed sheets. If a rainstorm comes up suddenly, you're as likely as not to whip out the paper you're carrying and save your bonnet from a fatal dousing.

Papers are published to be read, of course. But editors don't mind if you feel like using old copies to paper the kitchen. They don't care what you do with them after you've read them. As a matter of fact, you'd feel pretty lost if you couldn't find a newspaper to wrap up the jar of pickled peaches
you're about to send over to grandma.

CHAPTER XX
ANN said, "If you're smart you
won't kiss me."

Steve blundered into another dancing couple and almost lost his balance. "What'll you do?" he asked, swaying, not trying to dance.

"I'll slap your face."

He shouted with glee. "It'd be worth it—help me—it'd be worth
it."

"For your own information—it would be worth less than nothing
to me."

He held her at arm's length, endeavoring unsuccessfully to focus
his eyes on her tempting mouth.
"I don't see how anyone so beautiful can be so mean," he said.

"It's a gift," she answered.

Steve took a step and tripped.
Ann looked imploringly at the stag line. Immediately four gentlemen stepped forward. A boy,
wearing a bright red necktie with
his dark suit, tapped Steve on the shoulder.

"Nothing doing," Steve yelled.

"Get out of my way."

Ann nodded to the boy and he tried again. "You're wanted at the bar, Steve," he said.

"Don't want a drink. Ann in-tox—intox—can't say intoxicates —me plenty."

The stranger kept pace with them, tugging at Steve's shoulder.

Ann saw Paul with Irene Temple.
He was scowling darkly, watching Steve, not responding at all to Irene's coquetry.

"If she's so good let me dance with her," the boy insisted.

Steve crushed Ann to him. "You get out of here, Ann's my girl. I saw her first." Suddenly he was angry. Loosening his hold on Ann, he whirled on the accommodating stranger. His arm shot out and, fortunately, missed its aim.
Instantly there was a rush of stage and Steve was bundled, protesting loudly, from the floor.

Ann found herself dancing with her rescuer. He was very young and fair haired.

"My name is Ray—Stan Ray."

"How do you do. I'm Ann Brown."

"Yes, I know. The Evanston Browns?"

"No." She was ashamed of what had happened. For a moment it dampened her joy. "Will he be back?" she asked.

"Steve? No, he's finished for tonight. The Claybourne butler and the taxi driver will carry him

in."

"Isn't it a pity?"

"Yeah—Steve's a swell guy." He changed the subject. "Look, Miss Brown—are you dated for the week-end?"

"I'm afraid so." Cinderella must not stop out of her glass slippers.

"Too bad. A crowd of us are going to my dad's fishing lodge on Lake Michigan. Like to have you come along."

"It would be lovely. Another time, perhaps."

"Right. I'll give you a ring."

PAUL finally freed himself from Irene Temple and cut in. He took Ann to the supper room. She sat down while he filled her plate from the immense buffet table. It was good to sit down, she hadn't realized that the little gold slippers were tired.

The plate of food was to be one of her memories. Tiny open-faced sandwiches like flowers, a fluted cup of chicken salad, huge black olives, a little boxed ice, salted almonds.

"I'm dreaming, Paul," she said.

"In a minute I'll wake up and it will be creamed dried beef."

He laughed. "As a casual friend,
I'm going to tell you something,
Ann. You're the loveliest girl
here."

"Thank you, Paul."

"And Steve Claybourne is a
bum. If Miss Temple hadn't occupied me so thoroughly his face would now be jellied."

She put her pretty head on one side, regarding him seriously. "I didn't like it, Paul. I hated it."

Paul pulled a box from his pocket.
"It's your favor," he said. "They had different things, but I thought you'd like this best."

She opened the box reverently.

"A present—oh, I love presents."

"Ann's favor was a silver link bracelet. It fastened with an infinitesimal padlock. There was a tiny key. She was quite breathless while Paul put it on her arm.

"I'll keep the key," he said. "If you ever want to take it off you'll have to see for me."

"Who's flirting now?" she asked with a side glance.

He sighed and put the key in the box.

It was 2:30 when they left the hotel. Ann had never been so tired, nor so completely happy.
Many things had happened, things which she had tucked away in her memory to take out later and savor to the full.

In the taxi, she said, "Tell him to drive slowly, Paul. I don't want it to be a memory quite yet."

"Take your time, fella," he called through the glass. As they left the quiet city, he said, "I'd like to do the craziest thing."

"What?"

"I'd like to walk in the park."

"Let's."

They left the cab at the corner of Garfield park. The driver stared after them as they went into a shrubby lined path. He shrugged. It was no concern of his if a couple went completely whacky. He drove away.

Ann and Paul found their bench near the lagoon and sat down. The night was warm and hushed. The city slept, even the park seemed to drowse.

"It's lovely, Paul," Ann said
dreamily. "You think of the nicest things."

They did not talk. Contentment closed around them like a warm
arm. Ann leaned closer to Paul's arm. Her golden head nodded.
Finally it rested on his shoulder.

Paul put his arm around her and she sighed childishly, cud-dling her head against his collar.
He muttered, "Just this once—just this once."

AFTER a long time in which he did not sleep, he removed his arm. "The sun is about to set on an appearance, Ann," he said in a matter-of-fact tone.

She sat up, blinking her sleep-filled eyes. "Oh," she wailed, "I've missed all the beautiful time."

Paul could not be truthful in saying that the time had been wasted for him. He had allowed his lips to touch her hair and her forehead and the sweetness lingered.

They walked to Murray street through the sun-flecked mist of morning. Ann lifted her skirts, the jeweled heels twinkled with every step. At Mrs. Follet's door
she held out her hand.

"Why, it's Paul Hayden," she said, pretending surprise.

"And Ann Brown," he returned soberly. It was as if they deliberately stripped the morning of any bits of glamour which might have clung to it, as if they stepped back into their rightful, workaday lives.
They did not speak of the evening.
It had already become a memory.

It was after 6 when Ann slid out of her finery. She examined the alarm clock, found that it was set for 7, and lay down beside Clara. She did not sleep, nor did she feel the need of sleep.

Oddly enough, she did not dwell on her small triumphs at the Athens Club ball. She thought of Paul, his innate fineness, the rapture of his nearness when they danced. She lay with her lips pressed to the tiny silver padlock.

Death Rides With the Driver

Accidents are just accidents, if you hear those involved tell about them—but not if you take a look at automobile safety records.

The one thing that is glaringly apparent in the figures, as released by the Travelers Insurance Company of Hartford, Conn., is that virtually all accidents are beyond doubt due to negligence of those involved. There were 32,100 persons slaughtered on American highways last year. Most of them needn't have been.

In the vast majority of fatal accidents, the usual alibi of drivers had no basis. The weather was clear in 86.7 per cent of the cases and the pavement dry in 79.6 per cent. Of the drivers involved, 95.7 per cent had more than a year's experience 93.4 per cent were men. Ninety-three per cent of the cars involved were in good condition, and 84.5
per cent were driving on straight open stretches
when tragedy struck.

Drivers can't blame accidents on nature or on the service station man who forgot to fix the brakes.
They've got to face the responsibilities that fall upon them when they take the wheels of high-powered machines.

The Migrant Problem Grows

The Okies are not just people who live in a book that makes people shudder. Nor is theirs a problem confined to California.

Today every community has them. Florida is becoming acutely aware of a type of gypsy farmer who comes in every winter to pluck what he can of the lucrative fruit trade and leaves in the spring.
In Cleveland, it was recently reported that 2,000 migrants are being maintained on the relief rolls, while hundreds of others are being sent back to their homes as rapidly as that can be done. New York state has been forced to "exile" thousands of such families in recent years to prevent its slum conditions from becoming more acute.

Unless something is done, the migrant farmer,
against his own wishes, will pull down the general
standard of living.

The time has come when a congressional imvestigation such as that suggested by Representative John H. Tolan (Dem., Calif.), may do a lot of good.

U. S. Gets a Compliment

France was afraid Americans might begin to believe nazi propaganda. She was also afraid they might not believe French propaganda. So France sent Pierre de Lanux of the information ministry to look over the situation.

What M. de Lanux found should make every American gloat. This country, the Frenchman said, just wasn't swallowing propaganda. "Where once
this country was completely emotional—utterly glibber—the people today are astonishingly critical and disbelieving," he said.

Why the change? M. de Lanux practically answered that too when he explained that France will be bankrupt after the war, no matter who wins.
Americans knew that. Our memories aren't so short that we don't recall what the last war did to the world.

Perhaps, M. de Lanux, that's why we're not having any this time.

$15 A WEEK

BY LOUISE HOLMES

CHAPTER XX
ANN said, "If you're smart you
won't kiss me."

Steve blundered into another
dancing couple and almost lost his
balance. "What'll you do?" he
asked, swaying, not trying to
dance.

"I'll slap your face."

He shouted with glee. "It'd be worth it—help me—it'd be worth
it."

"For your own information—it
would be worth less than nothing
to me."

He held her at arm's length, endeavoring unsuccessfully to focus
his eyes on her tempting mouth.
"I don't see how anyone so beautiful can be so mean," he said.

"It's a gift," she answered.

Steve took a step and tripped.
Ann looked imploringly at the stag line. Immediately four gentlemen stepped forward. A boy,
wearing a bright red necktie with
his dark suit, tapped Steve on the

"Nothing doing," Steve yelled.

FANFARE

By DON DANIELSON.

TABLES ARE SET

The tables are set, the food is on the stove and everything is ready for the Italian dinner tonight at St. Mary's hall at 8:30 when the Dixon Royal Cardinals will fete the Dixon and Sterling basketball teams in a goodwill banquet. Your attendance will be your expression of sportsmanship.

MAKING A NAME AT COLLEGE

Irvin Wolf, former Sterling high school track star who is well known here, is reported to be clicking in good style as a freshman at the University of Iowa. He has won several places on the frosh team in telegraphic meets.

WHERE ANGELS FEAR TO TREAD

You know the one about "fools rush in—". It applies to anyone attempting to pick the state champions in the current race for basketball fame in Illinois. We've been on the wrong end of a cracking limb enough times to know better than crawl out on another, but with winter lingering on and spring delayed, there doesn't seem anything better to do than climb trees as a part of local sports. By the time you read this some of our predictions may be "gone with the wind," but they tell us there is going to be a sequel called, "Back with a Poof," so here goes: First round—Champaign over Crane Tech. Salem over Beardstown. Bloom over Herrin. Paris over Taylorville. Moline over Casey. Hebron over Lewistown. Dundee over Rushville. Granite City over Streator. Beyond this we fear to go—until we know how the first round comes out.

BOXING TOURNAMENT

Fred Warning, manager of the Rochelle Boys' club, has announced that a boxing tournament will be held on Tuesday, March 26. Several boys are reported to have already entered for the matches and according to the manager, any boy is welcome to participate.

ALMOST A CINCH

Lynn Callaway, writing in the Moline Dispatch notes that Mark Peterman picks Casey to defeat Moline today in the fifth game of the tournament. "So it's almost a cinch," Callaway writes. "For the Maroons to win. Mark hasn't been right since basketball was taken over by the fast break." Peterman's Springfield team was knocked out of the running in the regional tournaments this year causing a new low for the man who has taken more teams to the state than any other mentor. Peterman still clings to the slow break as the best form of the game.

ODE TO A WHITE SOX FAN

All right, you column-baiters
Grab your pens and start to write
With arguments sarcastic
Why we're wrong, and you are right.
You may have your pick of all
The other fifteen major clubs
As for us, we're still persisting
They're just background for the CUBS.

ONE MAN'S OPINION

Jack Fritzen who has watched the state tournament teams closer than Crosby follows the nags, has made up his mind about the state champions. Just to leave him room for alterations in case the first round predictions break down, we'll uncover only his first day forecasts: Champaign over Crane Tech (nobody seems to give the big city a looking); Salem over Beardstown (by a hair—burn joke!); Herrin towers over Chicago Heights; Paris will be gay after Taylorville game; it will be Casey wrestling the bat over Moline (say Fritzen and Peterman); Hebron to slay Lewistown too; Dundee taking the rush out of Rushville; Granite City too hard for Streator.

IN SEMI-FINALS TONIGHT

The Dixon Knacks will appear in the semi-finals of the sectional event of the Central States tournament at Hillsdale tonight where the locals will meet the cagers from Lyon. If the Dixon team wins tonight the boys are certain of at least one of the tournament trophies.

TRAINING CAMP BRIEFS

(By The Associated Press)

CHICAGO CUBS

Los Angeles.—The no-longer Deaneless Cubs and the rookie-studded White Sox launched Chicago's 1940 city rivalry today with the first exhibition game for each. Dizzy agreed to terms yesterday and is expected to be present Sunday when his mates meet the Philadelphia Athletics.

DETROIT TIGERS

Lakeland, Fla.—Shagging flies and chasing flies in the outfield are putting a lot of strain on Hank Greenberg's legs these days and the veteran star of the Detroit Tigers admits his muscles are sore.

CINCINNATI REDS

St. Petersburg, Fla.—You'll have to give the Cincinnati Reds "A" for effort, at least. They hopped over from Tampa today for the sixth attempt (four straight last fall, remember?) to get the best of the New York Yankees and Manager Bill McKehee was so desperate for victory he planned to throw both Paul Derringer and Bucky Walters at the champs.

WASHINGTON SENATORS

Orlando, Fla.—The Washington Senators are planning to give the Cleveland Indians a double dose of Latin hurling tomorrow when the teams meet in an exhibition game. Manager Bucky Harris will open with Rene Montague on the mound and follow with Gilberto Torres.

THE PHILLIES

West Palm Beach, Fla.—The Phillies' batting department doesn't look any more robust than last year, but the club managed to capture its first exhibition of the spring yesterday, 5-3, at the expense of Syracuse of the International League.

NEW YORK GIANTS

Winter Haven, Fla.—The New York Giants took time out today to lick their wounds from a 7-3 trouncing by the Boston Red Sox and to prepare for a worse fate tomorrow—a game with the World Champion Yankees.

ST. LOUIS CARDINALS

Bradenton, Fla.—The St. Louis Cardinals and Boston Bees were short some of their stars today as they squared off for an exhibition tussle. For the Cards Johnny Mize and Buster Adams were on the sick list with colds. Max West bounced a foul off his own foot in a long painful mishap that'll probably keep him on the sidelines along with Eddie Miller.

THE ATHLETICS

San Bernardino, Calif.—With eight victories and two defeats against minor league opposition, the Philadelphia Athletics took on the Pittsburgh Pirates today for their first major league test. The Pirates were to start a three-day barnstorming trip afterward, with some of the regulars remaining here while Manager Frank Frisch looks over his rookies' hopefuls.

BROOKLYN DODGERS

Lakeland, Fla.—The Brooklyn Dodgers, who have had some luck with castoffs, are enthusiastic over Tex Carleton, the veteran pitcher whom they reclaimed from the minors. He held the Yankees to one scratch hit yesterday and fanned six in three innings.

CLEVELAND INDIANS

Fort Lauderdale, Fla.—The Cleveland Indians opened their exhibition campaign today against Syracuse of the International League, but Pitcher Johnny Alton stayed behind at the Fort Myers base for his first workout. Several others of the Tribe also remained in camp as Manager Oscar Vitt arranged to observe his rookies.

ST. LOUIS BROWNS

San Antonio, Tex.—Ball players from nearby Randolph Army airfield came to the St. Louis Browns' training camp today to help the American Leaguers get in shape for their exhibitions against professional teams—starting Saturday with Tulsa. Manager Fred Haney, who had some trouble making his veterans hustle during last season, says they are working as hard as the rookies this spring.

BOSTON RED SOX

Sarasota, Fla.—The Boston Red Sox put on a hitting display that impressed the New York Giants yesterday, but when the team returned from Winter Haven it was the pitching that the coaches praised to Manager Joe Cronin, sick and with a cold. Jack Wilson, Jim Bagby and Woody Rich, all large size question marks, gave a good accounting.

BROTHER ACT

University, Ala.—It all in the family in Alabama, pole vaulters go into action. Vaughan and Nolan Tollett handle the event for the Crimson Tide. Vaughan also throws the javelin and broad jumps.

One applicant in every 5000 rises from extra ranks to leading roles in motion pictures; one in every 25,000 rises to stardom.

Illinois Cage Tourney Begins

C.Y.O. Champions to Fight Here April 16

STATE'S FINEST CAGE TEAMS ARE IN ACTION TODAY

State High School Cage Tournament Starts at Champaign Today

By TOM SILSR

Champaign, Ill., March 14.—(AP)—The state's 16 finest basketball teams moved into action today as the scramble began for the Illinois championship in the 33rd annual tournament at the University of Illinois.

There apparently was not a standout in the field as virtually every team in the field received consideration as the ultimate survivor when the champion is crowned next Saturday night.

The tournament got underway with a game between Champaign's fine, well-balanced crew and Crane Tech, champion of the Chicago city league and only team in the field which was not required to survive tournament competition in recent weeks.

The second game on the morning program brought Salem and Beardstown together. In the afternoon Bloom of Chicago Heights played Herrin. Paris met Taylorville and Casey played Moline. Three night games—Hebron-Lewistown, Dundee-Rushville and Granite City-Streator—complete the first round schedule.

The quarter finals are on tap Friday, two games in the afternoon and two at night, with the semi-finals Saturday afternoon and the title battle that night.

Hebron, which put Rockford, the 1939 champion, out of the running last week, represents a school of only 101 students, but that is not its only claim to fame. Hebron is the only team among the 16 which began the tournament climb in district contention and now has won 30 of 31 games for the entire season.

Salem is another highly-rated contender considered by competent observers to be among the top three or four title-seekers. Dundee, only past champion in the field, also is receiving considerable attention from the doers. Dundee has averaged almost 50 points a game this season.

Many rate Paris as the team to beat for the title. Paris was runner-up to Rockford a year ago and finished third in the tournament the year before. Paris has the speed and defensive ability to go far this season although they have yet to show the offensive strength of some of their rivals.

COLORADO CAGERS TROUNCE FINE DE PAUL BASKETEERS

New York, March 14.—(AP)—They hung the S. R. O. sign on Colorado University's bandwagon today.

The Golden Buffs saw to that last night with the most astounding and convincing victory of the Metropolitan Invitational tournament, a 52 to 37 trouncing of a fine DePaul team. That sent the Buffs into the final Friday night, and they've got their work cut out for them then.

For standing directly in their path to the title is as tough a bunch of basketeers as you ever saw—the apparently indefatigable Dukes of Duquesne, who have gone through two tourney games with only one substitution.

The Dukes ruined the 25-game winning streak of the highly-touted Oklahoma Aggies by 34-30 in a game in which the lead changed hands 11 times. That game was close, and hard fought and tense—in direct contrast from Colorado which got away to a 16 point lead on the Chicagoans—and never let them get close.

DE CORREYONT WILL PLAY BASEBALL FOR WILDCATS

Evanston, Ill., March 14.—(AP)—Bill De Correyont, Northwestern's manager, will play for the Purple baseball nine.

In fact, the off season finds De Correyont a very busy lad. In addition to being a promising candidate on a baseball squad, already crowded with 10 lettermen, he has gone politician. Last night he participated in a radio symposium on politics.

OLD TIMER

Baton Rouge, La.—Even before Coach Harry Rabenhorst started his 15-year term on the Louisiana State University coaching staff he was an old-timer in the vicinity. Rabenhorst, a native of Baton Rouge, who has been basketball and baseball coach here since 1926, played as a boy on the old plantation that later became the site of the university.

L. S. U. moved to its present location in 1927.

Montreal once recorded a 110-mile-an-hour wind. Fortunately it was only a single gust. A steady wind at that speed would have wrecked the city.

GREENBERG LOOKS GOOD IN LEFT FIELD

By GALE TALBOT

Lakeland, Fla., March 14.—(AP)—Though the complete returns will not be until about July 4, it may be said at this point that Hank Greenberg looks surprisingly good in left field for the Detroit Tigers and that he likes his new job better every day he plays it.

Also, it can be reported that the Tigers look like a better ball club now that the big guy is roaming the outfield and Rudy York at last is in possession of first base, the one and only spot he can play really well. Manager Del Baker appears to have solved one of the most vexing problems that ever confronted a big league pilot.

"Honest, I like playing outfield more than I had any idea I would," said Greenberg. "I'm not using the first base at all, and I think maybe I'll do all right out there. "One thing that's helping me a lot is that I can handle ground balls better than a lot of outfielders. Did you realize that an outfielder gets more ground balls to handle than he does flies? I've been stopping grounders all my life, so I'm not afraid to come in and try to trap a lot of balls that the other fellows stay back and take on the mound."

Pegs Ball Hard and True

Later, watching Greenberg sprint around out there for nine innings, he looked like he had been telling the truth. He easily hauled down every fly that came his way, chased those that went past him enthusiastically, and pegged the ball in hard and true.

Despite his 6 feet 3½ inches and 210 pounds, Hank is neither slow nor awkward. He doesn't look like he's moving so fast, but those long legs take him over the ground.

So, with Greenberg and York in there swinging one-two every day the Tigers feel they can't help being a little tougher than they were last year. Even though they face the possible loss of Charlie Gehringer, veteran second baseman, from accumulated ills, and had Benny McCoy and Roy Cullenbine snatched from them by Boston—dis during the winter, they are not feeling downcast.

CURRENT CHAMP MAY MEET FORMER TITLE HOLDER IN WOMEN'S GOLF TOURNEY

Belleair, Fla., March 14.—(AP)—A meeting of the current National Women's Golf champion and a former champion appeared to be in the making today in the annual Belleair women's tournament.

Betty Jameson, of San Antonio, Texas, present national titlist, had a semi-finals engagement today with Jane Cothran of Greenville, S. C., and in the other bracket, Glenna Collett Vre of Merion, Pa., a former champion, faced Dorothy Kirby of Atlanta, Ga.

While both Miss Jameson and Mrs. Vre were up against worthy opposition today, they were favored to reach the finals.

JOHN BREALD AND COWAN WILL HEADLINE CARD

CYO Champion Boxers to Meet Local Fighters At High School

Promising one of the biggest local sports events of the season, the Dixon Council of the Knights of Columbus announced today that Catholic Youth Organization's boxers of Chicago will fight here in eight exhibition bouts at the high school auditorium on the night of Tuesday, April 16.

Headlining the card will be the heavyweight scrap between John Brealand, CYO champion of Chicago and Bill Cowan of Crystal Lake who won the Golden Gloves championship of his division at Rockford this year and was runner-up in the Chicago Tournament of Champions.

All the fighters who are scheduled to appear here are a selected group of the best leatherpushers of the organization and they will be matched with fighters from this area, many of them outstanding in the recent Rockford finals of the Golden Gloves. They are absolute champions and the best men in the class which should offer Dixon fight fans one of the rarest treats in many seasons.

Three-Round Bouts

All bouts will be three rounds each and local officials who will be selected later will govern the contests.

The card is sponsored by the local Knights of Columbus with the aid of Sterling Council and all proceeds will be turned over for the benefit of Catholic Charities of this district of the diocese. General admission tickets will sell for 50 cents and there will be a limited number of reserved seats on sale for 75 cents and one dollar. Tickets may be purchased from any member of the Knights of Columbus or at the United Cigar store, Cover's or James Billiards.

Those serving on the ticket committee and who are working otherwise to make the event a success are: Eugene Minnihan, John Cahill, William Penrose, John Reilly, John Lacks, Byron LaFever, George Richards, Melvin Murphy, Joe Grygiel, Steve Grygiel, Royal Fitzsimmons, Gilbert Royall and Willard Jones.

BASEBALL VETERAN SAYS THERE IS PRACTICALLY NOTHING NEW IN GAME

West Palm Beach, Fla., March 14.—(AP)—Joe Sugden, who has been in the game almost half of the 100 years it has been played, says there's nothing new in baseball—well, practically nothing.

The veteran scout for the St. Louis Cardinals organization, now coaching rookies with the Rochester Red Wings, a Cardinal farm club, observed:

"There's nothing much new to tell them. After all, it's the same game that we were playing before most of those kids were born."

Sugden, starting his 48th year of baseball and nearing 70, declared he saw no way of comparing the game today with what it was 40 years ago.

"A man can't throw a ball any faster today than 40 years ago," he asserted. "Pitchers had just as much stuff then. The game was played about the same."

Sugden broke into the majors from Charleston of the old 12-team Southern League going to the Pittsburgh Pirates when accidents to regulars gave him a chance at a catching berth.

"I caught 19 games without an error and no one was more surprised than me," he related. "It took me five years to find out I wasn't a star."

From Pittsburgh, he went to the Chicago White Sox, then to Cleveland and both St. Louis teams before ending his playing career.

M. E. Ladies Aid

The March-April division of the Rochelle Methodist Ladies' Aid societies seeks talent for the W. L. S.-Prairie Farmer amateur show which will be held April 4, 5 and 6 at Rochelle high school. The try-outs will be held March 28 and 29 at Rochelle Methodist church and anyone who sings, dances, performs or plays is invited to take part. This includes residents of Ashton, Franklin Grove, Chana, and surrounding territory, as well as Rochelle.

Rochelle Garden Club

Annual election of officers of Rochelle Garden club will be held at the next meeting, which is scheduled for April 5. Mrs. Thomas McEachern appointed Mrs. Howard Cooper, Mrs. M. Daubenspeck and Mrs. Harry R.ough as the nominating committee at the meeting last week at the McEachern home. The Junior Garden club committee was also named as follows: Miss Helen Hungerford, Miss Edith Chen-Hingel, Mrs. E. Colwill, Mrs. George Cobb, and Mrs. Robert Brundage. It is probable that the Junior Garden club contest will be carried on in Rochelle this coming season, under the plan of last year.

Mrs. Arthur Heltness gave a talk on "Garden Paths and Planting" and Mrs. W. B. Foster reviewed a chapter from "New and Old Plant Lore". Dates of the Illinois Garden club's flower show were announced from March 30 to April 7. The show is attended yearly by many Rochelle people.

Founders' Day Luncheon

Sixty women enjoyed the annual Founders' Day luncheon at the Methodist church last Wednesday noon, and the program which followed. The scramble luncheon was served from tables set in the form of a cross and decorated with pink and green. Mrs. Nellie Lindsey, president of the society, and Mrs. C. W. Goodman and Mrs. George Orner and their committees arranged the affair. Mrs. H. R. Lisaac presented the review of the lesson, "Women and the Way in Europe and Great Britain". Mrs. Paul Dibble led devotions and directed a demonstration, in which Mrs. Fred Harris, Mrs. William Townsend, Mrs. Lee Seiple, Mrs. W. L. Baker, Mrs. Emmert Stover and Mrs. George Orner took part. A group of solos was given by Miss Helen Haselton; Miss Helen Phelps played the accompaniment. Mrs. Ada Neff played for the group singing.

Birthday Dinner

Immediate relatives of Floyd J. Caspers were entertained at his home Sunday in honor of his birthday. They were: Mr. and Mrs. George Stahmer and Miss Maryann Caspers of Maywood; Mr. and Mrs. Roy Raffenberg of Dixon; and Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Caspers of Rochelle.

Visiting

Mrs. Frank Harms is the guest of Chicago relatives for ten days.

Heard Simon Barer

Miss Alene Fowler, Betty Prough, Helen Phelps, Alma Happe, Mrs. E. W. Breyman, Mrs. George Fouser, Mr. and Mrs. Emmert Stover and Mrs. Floyd Caspers were among the Rochelle people who heard Simon Barer, the Russian pianist at Shrine Temple in Rockford Wednesday evening.

Hostess to Choir

Mrs. Elmer Boltz, choir director of the Methodist church, entertained the choir, wives and husbands at dinner Friday evening at the church parlors. Thirty-four were present, and the menu and tables were attractive in green and white. Choir rehearsal followed the dinner.

Attended Retreat

Rev. Apul Dibble spent Wednesday attending retreat at Memorial chapel at Northwestern campus in Evanston.

Standard Bearers' Banquet

Mystery mothers and daughters of the Standard Bearers will have their annual banquet and program Monday evening of next week at 7:30 o'clock at the Methodist church parlors. Mrs. D. F. Swaney of DeKalb will be the guest speaker. Miss Alma Happe and the Standard Bearers will have charge of the program and menu.

M. E. Ladies Aid

The regular meeting of the Ladies' Aid society was held Wednesday afternoon at the Methodist church.

M. E. Junior Kings Guards

The Junior Kings Guards will meet Friday afternoon at the Methodist parsonage at 4 o'clock for their regular meeting. The program will be in charge of Mrs. Nathan Flanders.

Easter Sunrise Service

An Easter morning sunrise service is announced for Sunday morning, April 24, at the Methodist church. It will be arranged by the Epworth League, and the general public is invited to attend. The service will begin at 6 o'clock.

Special music has been planned for the service, and the speaker will be Dr. Jewell Collins of Evanston. Dr. Calkins has appeared in Rochelle on several occasions and many wish to hear him again.

Improving

Friends of Mrs. Alice Hann will be glad to hear she is improving from her illness.

Free Spring Exposition

Secretary Neve of the Rochelle Chamber of Commerce has announced the business places that are taking part in the spring exposition to be held here Friday afternoon and all day Saturday, March 15 and 16 at the Sherlock building, corner of North Sixth street and Lincoln avenue. The following business houses will display home appliances, electrical, gas, heating, furniture, paint, automobiles, farm machinery and seeds and flowers to an interested public:

H. & S. Radio and Appliance company, Gamble store, Rochelle Gas company, City of Rochelle, Smith Oil company, Sam's Furniture store, Powers Paint store, Mutton's Electric shop, Baar's Flower shop, Ralph Cleveland farm implements, Hector Caron, C. P. Unger, Jo Askvig, John Manning, George Kline, Dexter Stocking, Eugene Bain, Lazier Seed company.

There will also be free entertainment including music and boxing bouts.

The committee assisting with arrangements includes John Manning, W. F. Eber, Gene Bain, LaVern Mutton, Hector Caron and C. A. Anderson.

Meetings For Thursday

Daughters of the American Revolution.

Come-Double class of the Presbyterian church.

S. S. S. club.

Auxiliary Sewing Bee

At the Tuesday afternoon meeting of the American Legion auxiliary at the home of Mrs. Harry Brough, it was voted to donate $5 to the Insulin fund, and to send Easter remembrances to two orphan girls of the Soldiers' Children's home at Normal, Ill.

The auxiliary is planning a rummage sale for the first of May. Within a short time, they expect to entertain the Legion at an anniversary party.

This sewing bee was the last of the series. The next regular meeting will take place next Monday evening at Legion hall.

Surgical Case

George Hintsche, 12 years old, became a surgical patient at Lincoln hospital Tuesday.

Dixon Visitor

Mrs. Roy Raffenberg of Dixon is a visitor in the Floyd Caspers home.

LEE CENTER

Mrs. Esther Kalsted and family spent Sunday with relatives in Chicago.

A good crowd attended S. E. Dishong's sale Saturday afternoon and prices were quite satisfactory. Col. John Gentry was the auctioneer, and Earl Carlson the clerk. Mr. Dishong's condition remains practically unchanged. Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Nattress have moved in with Mr. and Mrs. Dishong and Mrs. Raymond Degner who has been in the home since her father was stricken, will return to her farm home north of here.

Miss Arlene Wolfgram, teacher of home-making in the local high school, was hostess to the evening unit of the Lee Center Home Bureau last Tuesday evening, March 5. Miss Simpson gave the lesson, "Window Treatment." Response to roll call was "What subject each member would like to study for the coming year. Alice Parlin directed recreation and the hostess served tempting refreshments. The unit will meet with Mrs. Carl Maves in April.

The W. J. Leakes entertained their fortnightly bridge club Monday. Refreshments were served following the games.

Mrs. Mary Melissa Richardson was called to Dixon Wednesday night by the serious illness of her son, Jim Richardson. Mr. Richardson has suffered from varicose veins in his foot for some time and was taken with an attack of streptococcus infection shortly after appearing Tuesday

Weekly Food and Marketing Letter by Mrs. George Thurn for Dixon Telegraph Readers

What question does a cooking school lecturer hear most frequently? The answer to that is easy—and difficult; that it, difficult to solve the problem in the limited time at cooking school.

The familiar, age-old question is: "Please give me a good recipe for left-overs," or "How can I serve left-overs attractively, so my family will not recognize them?"

This question cannot be disposed of in five minutes, any more than a busy homemaker can track down a tempting recipe in that time which will utilize the previous foods she has on hand. Even with the many recipe books and suggestions in newspapers and magazines, a search for a recipe to disguise a few carrots, fewer cooked peas and a pork chop calls for a Madame Sherlock Holmes.

The fortunate homemaker who "cooks by ear," or by instinct, has hunches about these odds and ends of food, and she contrives to use them ingeniously without any seeming plan. Vegetable juices go into a covered jar for soups, stews and certain oven casserole dishes, and leftover vegetables go into many of these same dishes. The addition of seasonings and sauces, and a topping of grated cheese often is the difference between a triumph and an uninteresting main dish.

While it is a waste of time to try to give any specific recipe, certain basic helpful rules can be suggested, which will utilize left-overs and yet serve them in appetizing disguise. The precise adaptation of these suggestions must be left to the cook, who knows her family's tastes. Suppose the refrigerator has some of these items, in varying quantities: A few peas, beans, potatoes, beets, celery, onions cooked; several spoonfuls of corn, a bit of fish, some liver, tongue or sausage, one veal chop, a fragment of ham, cheese or macaroni, and so on. Combinations of these items may be used in the following ways:

1. Chop or grind and mix with mayonnaise. Use for sandwich fillings in the lunch-box, or for a hot luncheon dish, saute the sandwiches in shortening in a shallow frying utensil. Hot filled sandwiches.

2. Grind the left-overs and fry in hot shortening, calling the mixture hash. Celery and parsley will be helpful, with other seasonings. If mixture is dry, bind with an egg, a few drops of cream, or melted butter.

3. With a medium white sauce, combine the left-overs, letting them stand until firm. Mold into shapes, dip in powdered crumbs and fry in shallow shortening, calling the dish croquettes. (Popular disguise with the family.)

4. All left-overs of vegetables and meat may be combined and stirred into a medium white sauce. Pour into a buttered casserole, sprinkle with grated cheese or crumbled crumbs, and call the dish a scallop.

5. Combine all left-overs, add milk, butter, seasonings, thicken slightly, and call the dish a creamed soup.

6. Meats or fish may be diced with vegetables. Add mayonnaise or French dressing and serve on lettuce; call the dish a main meal salad. If needed, round out the dish with hard-cooked eggs, and a garnish of olives and cheese.

The homemaker must determine the exact type of dish needed to round out the meal. She also knows whether her family prefers soup, sandwich, hot scalloped dish, salad, croquettes or hash.

Remember that a smooth creamy white sauce will work wonders in many dishes. Even the most critical member of the family won't be able to make that discouraging discovery. "Aw, these are only the old peas and beans we didn't eat up last night."

Cooking school has encouraged French-frying, by proving that it is simple, inexpensive, practical and that foods thus cooked are digestible when pure ingredients are used correctly. No family will turn down golden-brown croquettes, with a white sauce base; neither will they trace the ancestry of the balance of the filling. After all, the frying method is easiest, and with left-overs, it actually seems to recover some of the lost flavors of the foods previously cooked.

One practical warning: Don't expect too much from a few left-overs, and don't spend more time and valuable material than they justify. In other words, don't spend fifty cents' worth of new material to utilize a left-over valued at eight cents!

LENTEN DISHES

BAKED MACARONI

Baked macaroni and cheese is one of Lenten favorites. This nourishing recipe is gleaned from the new follow-up service of aluminum manufacturers, who now are telling homemakers just how to use their product. This recipe utilizes the four-quart sauce pot and the shiny oven casserole.

Two cups elbow macaroni, three tablespoons butter, five tablespoons flour, one teaspoon salt, one and one-half cups milk, one-fourth pound grated cheese.

Cook macaroni in boiling salted water in four-quart sauce pot until tender (about 10 minutes); rinse with cold water and drain. Melt butter in sauce pan; remove from heat; stir in flour and salt; add one-half cup milk and blend; add remaining milk and stir together. Place over medium low heat and cook until bubbly, stirring constantly. Add macaroni; mix well.

Butter casserole: place a layer of the macaroni mixture in the bottom, sprinkle with one-half of cheese. Put in another layer of macaroni and top with remaining cheese. Cover and bake in moderate oven, 400 degrees, 20 minutes.

MINT PEARS

Delicious with macaroni and cheese, and with many meat dishes is this easily-made treat: One No. 2½ can pears, one package cream cheese, mint jelly, maraschino cherries.

Place pears cut side up in shallow baking pan, with a small amount of the syrup. Fill each cavity with cream cheese. Bake 15 minutes in moderate oven, 400 degrees; baste twice during baking. To serve, top cheese with mint jelly and center with cherry.

FISH PUDDING

One pound fillet of haddock, one and one-half teaspoons salt, one and one-half teaspoons flour, one-fourth teaspoon each pepper and nutmeg, one and three-fourths cups milk, three tablespoons melted butter.

Wash fillets and dry thoroughly with cloth. Cut in small pieces and put through meat grinder, using the finest knife. Add salt, flour, nutmeg and pepper mixture to fish and put through grinder six times. Add milk carefully, stirring until well blended. Stir in melted butter. Pour in buttered baking utensil and bake in moderate oven, 375 degrees, 30 to 35 minutes or until firm. Serve with melted butter, or any desired sauce. This recipe is popular in Norway.

CHOCOLATE CRUNCH COOKIES

One-half cup shortening, one-half teaspoon each salt and vanilla, one-fourth cup granulated sugar, one-half cup brown sugar, firmly packed, on egg, beaten, one-fourth teaspoon soda, one cup sifted flour, one seven-ounce bar semi-sweet chocolate, cut in large pieces, one-half cup nuts, cut.

Combine shortening, salt and vanilla. Add sugars gradually and cream well. Add egg and beat well. Sift soda with flour. Add flour to creamed mixture and mix well. Add chocolate and nuts and blend.

Drop from tablespoon on baking sheets rubbed with shortening. Bake in moderate oven, 375 degrees, 12 minutes. This popular Cooking School recipe makes 3 dozen popular cookies.

EGG VARIATIONS

Boiled eggs have many uses and variations. Remember that eggs need to be cooked at a low temperature; extreme heat toughens the white in eggs and causes them to be rubbery, or leathery. Use one and one-half cups water to each egg. Heat water to boiling point. Add the fresh eggs to the water and place dish in warm place where temperature falls slowly. Ten minutes will give a soft-cooked egg. Twenty minutes will give a medium hard egg. Forty-five will make the egg firm, but not tough. Drop in cold water to shell easily.

Eggs Mollet: The eggs in the shell are first cooked as for soft-boiled egg, cooled, carefully shelled and placed in cold water until needed. Before using them, warm gently in the water.

Eggs Duchesse: Serve egg mollet on flat oval-shaped potato croquettes and pour over a cream sauce. Garnish with asparagus tips, or green peas.

Eggs Mollet with Spinach: Cook fresh spinach rapidly five minutes, adding no water except what remains on leaves after washing. Chop spinach, mix it with cream and season with salt. Form it as a bed on which the eggs mollet are placed and surround with brown gravy.

Eggs Barcelona: Cut tomatoes in half. Broil in pan in oven and serve an egg mollet on each. Garnish with shredded green pepper, lightly cooked in butter.

Eggs in Tomato Baskets: Cut tomato in halves; remove seeds. Season with salt, pepper and bits of butter and bake in the oven. Fill with any flaked fish—crab, lobster, tuna, salmon—cooked in cream. Put the eggs mollet on top and cover with a cream sauce.

HOMEMAKING NEWSLETTERS

Although the average man is not intrigued by gadgets, he should be fascinated by the new double thermometer, which actually will register both indoor and outdoor temperatures. It is placed inside the home, recording the house temperature on one gauge. A small connecting meter dangles outside the windows and records what the weather is up to on the other gauge.

A modern inspiration for kitchens is an acoustically-treated ceiling. No more sound effects from egg beaters and falling cutlery! This ceiling, made of sound-absorbent material, is said to soak up much of the noise within the room. Washable paper is being boosted for kitchen walls and ceiling, as a change from monotonous cream or oyster white walls. For a room with a high ceiling, a paper with a gingham design is recommended.

A cook book published in 1874 advises that "In the evening it is a good plan to take a few moments of quiet, before retiring, to arrange the work for the coming day."

No more picnic lunch baskets for air-minded travelers! Complete meals are served expertly, with attractive silver and linen. A typical dinner on American Airlines ships includes cream of tomato soup, olives and celery, fried chicken, mashed potatoes, creamed fresh peas, cottage cheese salad, rolls and butter, hot coffee, tea or milk, ice-cream and dainty cakes.

DOG FINDS WOMAN'S BODY

Downers Grove, Ill.—(AP)—Searchers led by a barking dog yesterday found the body of Mrs. Maggie Understock, 64, who had been missing since last Saturday night. The dog had discovered the body near a clump of bushes.

MANSLAUGHTER CHARGED

Poplarville, Miss.—(AP)—A preliminary hearing was set for next Tuesday in the case of Miss Phyllis Rosenfield of Rock Island, Ill., charged with manslaughter as a result of the traffic death of Billie Stines, 9, of Poplarville. Sheriff Enoch Seal said the child was struck Tuesday by Miss Rosenfield's automobile. She was free on a $500 bond.

GIRL SCOUTS LEADER DEAD

Peoria, Ill.—(AP)—The founder of the Peoria chapter of Girl Scouts, Mrs. Marie Ulrich, 78, died last night. She was the widow of Charles E. Ulrich, Peoria banker.

HOW PLEASANT IT IS to think about the dinner party you have just given . . . how lovely the table looked . . . and what a thrill it was to hear so many of your guests say . . .

"Now that's what I call good coffee"

HILLS BROS. COFFEE HAS QUALITY THAT NEVER VARIES.

When made with care you can serve it to the most critical person . . . confidently . . . and proudly!

The Correct Grind is guaranteed to give best results by any method of coffee-making if directions are followed. Hills Bros. Coffee should never be reground. Regrinding results in a loss of flavor and aroma and the coffee loses freshness faster.

IMPORTANT: Carefully observe timing for each method. Measure 2 level tablespoons of coffee to each cup of water. Vary water slightly for exact strength desired. Keep coffee-maker clean.

PERCOLATOR: Start with cold or hot water. Percolate slowly 7 to 10 minutes after steady pumping starts.

COFFEEPOT: Bring coffee and water to boiling. Stir well. Remove from fire. Add small amount of cold water and let stand 5 minutes to settle grounds.

STEeping: Pour boiling water on coffee. Stir well and cover. Steep for a total of 10 to 15 minutes.

GLASS VACUUM-MAKERS: Put upper bowl on after water boils. The coffee and water should be in contact 5 to 7 minutes.

DRIP METHOD: 6 to 8 minutes preferred. If less than 2-3 capacity is made, water will drip too fast giving weak brew.

ON THE SIDE OF EVERY CAN

Report Smith's Aide Considered for Directorship

Springfield, Ill., March 14—(AP)—Governor Horner was reported today considering Charles P. Casey, assistant director of the state department of public welfare for appointment as director of the department to succeed F. Lynden Smith, who died last Saturday.

Casey has been acting director of public works since Smith went to Florida over a month ago on a leave of absence.

The late director's body was to be buried today in Memorial Park cemetery, north of Pontiac.

Should Casey be made director of public works, sources close to the governor said that Warren Brockhouse of Jacksonville, former office assistant of Smith, might take the assistant director's post.

The name of John T. Casey, also was mentioned as a candidate.

Ernest Lieberman, chief highway engineer, was said to have indicated that he would rather keep his present position than be advanced.

Inquest Date Uncertain

Coroner W. L. Draggio, meanwhile, said he had not definitely decided upon the date of an inquest to determine the cause of Director Smith's death. He had earlier expressed the opinion that the public works director whose body was found in a bathtub in St. John's hospital Saturday had taken his own life. Smith's doctor said the director had been under observation for "mental depression."

District Attorney Howard L. Doyle remained silent on reports that an income tax investigator who has been working over the internal revenue records in Springfield for two days was investigating transactions of Smith.

The former public works director was, until recently, chief fiscal manager of Democratic state political funds. Shortly before his trip to Florida, however, his control of campaign funds collected through the Illinoisans, the Democratic administration agency, was shared with Finance Director S. L. Nudelman and William J. Walsh, administration patronage director.

OLD TELEGRAPH DEAD
Chicago (AP)—David J. Duey, 75, veteran telegraph operator, collapsed and died, apparently of a heart attack, while riding on a street car yesterday. Duey formerly was chief operator for The Associated Press in Chicago for several years. In recent years he had worked for grain brokers in the board of trade building.

Two languages, Saxon and Norman French, were spoken in England for many years after the Norman conquest.

The gigantic soft drink trade owes its inception to a Philadelphia perfumer, who mixed fruit syrups with carbonated water.
